Joe College??

No, not hardly. It's Don Wigginton, Cincinnati junior and a guard on the football team. Since this scene occurred the day after the Maroon-White game, one might wonder what the grid sport has done to Wigginton.

Actually it was part of a gag to find the "ugliest man on campus." If Wigginton wasn't first, he surely came close.

Tinder to Speak at Baccalaureate

Dr. Frank N. Tinder, minister May 26, emeritus of the First Christian Church here, will deliver the baccalaureate address Sunday, Coliseum.

EKU African Studies Team

Dr. Alan Downes, chairman of the department of social science, and Edward DeCarbo, coordinator of international education, comprise a team who will attend the African Studies Institute at UCLA, Berkeley.

Dr. Downes and DeCarbo are one of 15 "teams" selected from among the 215-school membership of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. They will spend eight weeks of summer, 1968, at UCLA's African Studies Center, and eight weeks of summer, 1969, in several new African nations. In the academic year between their two summers of study, Downes and DeCarbo will be able to invite African experts to Eastern for lectures, seminars and the like, a part of the institutional participation to which Eastern is entitled by virtue of Downes' and DeCarbo's choice.

"The emphasis of this program is institutional," said DeCarbo, "and we are to bring back information for the benefit of students and faculty at Eastern."

Eastern's 61st Spring Commencement will be held at 4 p.m. the same day, also in the Coliseum. Alumni Day is Saturday, May 25, with the annual Alumni Banquet and reception scheduled for Saturday evening.

Dr. Tinder, who served the Richmond church 38 years, is also minister ecumenical of the First Christian Church at Louisville.

A native of Mayslick in Mason County, Dr. Tinder was ordained for the ministry in 1924 at the North Middletown Christian Church in Bourbon County. He is a graduate of Transylvania College, Lexington, and the Divinity School at Yale University, and did graduate work at Columbia University.

He has held pastorates at the Kirksville (Madison County) Christian Church; the First Christian Church, Chattanooga (associate minister); and the First Christian Church at Shelbyville, Tenn.

The baccalaureate speaker is past president of the Christian Churches of Kentucky Convention; a member of the Board of Education of Christian Churches; past chairman of the Association of Christian Churches of Kentucky; past president of the Campbell Club of Yale Divinity School; past president of the Central Kentucky Ministerial Association; member of the Board of Curators of Transylvania College and chairman of the college's Executive Committee.

Two EKU Students Meet Death In Week

Two Eastern students met death during the past week.

William Max Werner, a 20-year-old sophomore, drowned Saturday while a participant in a raft race on the Kentucky River and Miss Mary Joyce Seltsam, a 21-year-old senior, died of suicide Tuesday in Danville.

State Trooper Grover Scholler said Werner, a sophomore, was among about 25 students and alumni gathered at Boonesborough Beach for the annual race of seven rafts.

About 50 persons lined the banks from Allman's Restaurant to the Clay's Ferry Bridge to watch the race, officials noted.

Gary Litner, West Milton, Ohio, and Michael Jones, Glover, Ohio, were with Werner on a raft made of planks and barrels.

The craft passed the Ky. 227 bridge and Allman's Restaurant and was about two miles from the latter location when it came apart. All three youths were forced to start swimming about 50 feet toward shore. Werner had gone about half that distance, the boys said, when he sank.

Litner and Jones described

Werner as a strong swimmer.

Three Sophomores Receive ROTC Scholarships

Three sophomores have been awarded ROTC scholarships for their last two school years, it was announced by Col. Everett N. Smith, professor of military science.

Naming of the trio raises to six the number of the ROTC students at Eastern to win Department of the Army scholarships. Eastern's ROTC brigade of 2,400 men, is the third largest in the U.S.

The latest students named were John B. Crites, personnel management major from Wilmington, Ohio, Derald Edgar Emory, accounting major from Valley Station; and Donald Merle Nalley, accounting major from Louisville.

The scholarships provide for the payment of all tuition and fees and a substantial allowance for books. A subsistence payment of $50 a month for 20 months is part of the award.

Crites, Emory and Nalley were selected from among a slate of 12 applicants whose records were forwarded to headquarters of the First Army, Fort Meade, Md., for final screening. Chosen last month from the same slate were David William Krebs, Irvine, Ohio; and Jackie Lee Phelps, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Crites, the son of Mr. and

Mrs. Harold W. Crites, of Willington, Ohio, belongs to Pershing Rifles and K.I.E. (honorary society and has been awarded the ROTC medal. He has been named to the Dean's List of honor students.

Cadet Derald Emory is the son of Ralph H. Emory, Valley Station.

Cadet Donald Nalley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nalley, Louisville, is a member of Pershing Rifles.

Dr. Ross Awarded Silver Cup By Eastern Kentucky S.N.E.A.

The Student National Education Association of Eastern Kentucky University has awarded Dr. Charles L. Ross, professor of education, a silver cup "for his outstanding contribution to the field of education."

Dr. Ross has been a member of Eastern's faculty for five years, has been active in campus activities, and has been of professional aid to the students.

A native of Rogersville, Tenn., and presently a resident of Berea, Dr. Ross attended Rogersville High School before entering Tusculum College in Greeneville, Tennessee, to acquire his B.A. degree. In 1953, he received his

M.A. degree from George Peabody College, and later in 1953, he received his Doctorate in Education from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Ross, married and the father of two children, served as principal of Morristown City Schools in Morristown, from 1940 to 1943, and from 1949 to 1956. Later, from 1956 to 1963, he served as superintendent of the same school district.

An Army veteran, Dr. Ross serves on several prominent committees on Eastern campus.

He is an elected member of the Faculty Senate, a member of the Graduate Council and a graduate school administrator. S.N.E.A. also honored Dr. Ross "for his unfailing service to education and his personal example of what future educators should become."

January Grads Should Apply This Month

All students who expect to complete associate, baccalaureate, or masters degree requirements in January, 1969, are to make application for the degree during the month of May, 1968. This will permit a careful check of each student's academic record prior to registration for fall semester, thus insuring that all necessary courses may be taken during that semester so that degree completion will not be delayed.

Application forms may be secured at the various college offices and are to be returned to the office of the dean of the student's college prior to May 31.

Roommates Elected Chiefs of Opposing Groups

Life-Long Friends, Crum and Brothers, Head Campus Political Organizations

BY REGALD B. SMITH

PROGRESS NEWS EDITOR
The odds against two individuals rooming together at the University are estimated at over 3,000 to one, and the odds for the presidents of the Young Democrats club and the Young Republicans club rooming together are astronomical.

Nevertheless, it has happened at Eastern.

Dan Crum, a junior business major, and Lynn Brothers, a junior social science major, both from Maysville, were elected to presidential positions of their respective political organizations on April 24. The newly elected presidents have been going to school together for twelve years, and are rooming together at Eastern for the third consecutive year.

The two major political organizations of Eastern held their annual elections on April 24, electing Crum for the presidency of the Young Republicans, and Brothers as president of the Young Democrats.

Other students elected to positions for the Young Republicans are: Ken Patterson, junior political science major from Corbin, vice-president; Kandy Johnson, sophomore business major from Pikeville, recording secretary; Ann Preece, junior home economics major from Grundy, corresponding secretary; Harry Blue, freshman accounting major from Anchorage, treasurer, and Richard Brendenborg, junior elementary education major from Erlanger, student council representative.

The Young Democrats elected David Smith, junior speech and drama major from Bethel, Ohio, to the vice-presidency; Kathy Simon, a junior English major from Portsmouth, Ohio, to the secretarial post, and Nancy Stiggers, a junior pre-pharmacy major from Frankfort, to the treasurer's position.

When asked if they ever argued politics, Crum said, "Not

Check Deadline

The business office has announced that Friday, May 24, will be the final deadline for cashing checks. This will be affected in order that school officials will have the necessary time to do required bookkeeping.

Business office personnel advise students to plan their financial moves according to the check-cashing deadline.

here. It's easier for living together." Brothers replied, "We talk about it, but we try not arguing about it."

Brothers generally considers himself a liberal, whereas Crum declares himself a moderate. They both claim that politically is about the only way they contrast.

"We have basically the same interests," said Brothers. Both Crum and Brothers enjoy the same activities. They both declare themselves strong advocates of student involvement and political activism. They work together with the student council officials on certain issues, and both were active in "Choice 68," the recent student elections which took place on college campuses throughout the nation to get a presidential preference of college students.

Brothers is the president of the largest Young Democrats club in Kentucky, with approximately 300 members.

Crum holds the presidency of the largest Young Republicans club in the state, the third largest in the nation, with over 1,000 members.

Brothers and Crum are planning to live together again next year.

That should be quite interesting.

Political Prexies Pow-Wow

Lynn Brothers (left) and Dan Crum are roommates. But their association goes farther than that. Both are from Maysville and have been close friends for 12 years. And, to top it all, they are the newly-elected presidents of the campus political organizations.

Brothers heads the Young Democrats, the state's largest group of college Democrats, and Crum is the elected chief of the 1,200-member Young Republicans, the third largest such organization in the country.

The group seemingly stole the show from some of the 'name' acts, receiving a standing ovation on one occasion.

Man on the Move

Fess Parker is Appropriate Speaker

The name Fess Parker, when heard by the average person immediately brings to mind Davy Crockett, Daniel Boone, buckskins and coon skin caps, but people who know him better would tell you that he is also a college graduate, expert yachtsman, cyclist, airplane pilot, president of his own company, besides being a husband, father and one-third owner in the Daniel Boone television series.

The recent announcement that Mr. Parker will be this year's commencement speaker here at Eastern was a very pleasant surprise. It is important that any commencement speaker be a man who has been successful in life and who can communicate to the graduating seniors the requirements for success. Fess Parker is very well qualified on this score.

As an undergraduate at the University of Texas, Mr. Parker was already showing his potential as a businessman and promoter. During his college career he at one time held four jobs at once and learned to develop a sharp eye for promotion. It was the result of his energetic attitude that he finally promoted his way to Hollywood. It was then that Mr. Parker signed with Walt Disney for a salary of $500 a week and began his fame as Davy Crockett.

After leaving the Disney studios, Mr. Parker grew more interested in the real estate world. Ever since 1958 when he purchased land and built a home in Santa Barbara he has gone from one financial success to another until now he is worth two million dollars in Santa Barbara real estate alone.

Mr. Parker's most recent project to be developed by his own company, Fespar, Inc., is a $10,000,000 "Frontierland" which he hopes to build here in Kentucky.

Fess Parker is a man on the move and a man worthy of anyone's admiration and respect. We feel honored to have this dynamic, energetic, venturesome and very successful man address our 1968 graduating seniors.

A very informative article about Fess Parker appeared in the May 11, 1968, issue of TV Guide Magazine.

Students Are Under Great Pressures

An Eastern coed tragically ended her life early this week. Since studies indicate suicides often occur among college students, Monday's unfortunate incident causes great concern to Progress editors.

Joyce Seltam certainly seemed to be a vivacious, young lady who loved life and all it had to offer. She was a senior scarcely two weeks away from graduation. She was active in KYMA, the HPER club and student government.

Yet Miss Seltam took her life Monday night in her home in Danville. Again and again the question why? has been raised. Why would such a popular, happy-go-lucky person end a life just beginning?

That is a question which probably cannot be answered by anyone. Psychologists say a person must be temporarily insane to perform such an act. But there must be something that drives them to such a state of mind.

Certainly, there are many things which might cause a person to take his or her life and we do not assume that it was the pressures of finals alone which prompted Miss Seltam to take her life. The fact is that finals do present a great deal of pressure on a student who is striving to do his best and have in the past been a central contributor to several student suicides.

And with two weeks left in school, tragedy could very easily strike again if students don't stop and evaluate their position.

The world is not going to end if all students don't get 'respectable' grades. There is always next semester, and surely any student can stand the 'static' they get from parents because they didn't make the Dean's List.

A solution has to lie somewhere. Entirely too many lives of intelligent people are uselessly lost.

First, maybe students should realize that a semester cannot be made good in one week. Grades are not going to be changed much by final exams.

Second, parents could ease much of the pressure by not expecting their children to set the world on fire. Not everybody is capable of making the Dean's List.

And, finally, maybe our professors could accept the fact that their discipline is not the only one and ease just a little of the burden. Surely its not asking too much.

Our Own Image

Look everyone,
see what we have invented today.
Yesterday was the day
we invented the number.
The day before we invented the alphabet.
But today the day of days
we have created art.
See how lifelike we have made the flowing lines.
They are perfectly drawn.
That is because man is perfect, supreme,
the primal cause from which springs forth
all secondary causes.
But tomorrow is a greater day.
For tomorrow we shall create ourselves in our own images.

Pledge The Chapel Fund

Time is beginning to run out for the many organizations who have not yet made a pledge to the Student Chapel Fund.

The fund is now at $13,000, but all of the money has come from 10 organizations. That leaves over 90 groups that have yet to give.

It seems to the Progress that a project as worthy and needed as a non-denominational Meditation Chapel would draw better support from students who say they are responsible and who say they care about the University.

Less than three weeks remain till school closes. The Progress strongly urges all students to put forth that extra effort that must be had to realize such a fine project.

We care about the University's future. Do you?

WHEN friends of ours were building their home, a problem arose over finding a reasonably priced pane of glass for their picture window. Finally, they located a secondhand piece and had it set in place. It wasn't until their house-warming a few months later, when the setting sun struck the window at a low angle, that guest spotted the outline of some letters that had been scraped off the glass. Clearly visible was: Siegal's Delicatessen.

The Thousand-Mile Journey

Associated Collegiate Press

The Peace Corps has been one victim of the revulsion many students feel toward the "establishment," comments the University of Pittsburgh Pitt News.

Because it is a government agency, the newspaper continued in an editorial, people tend to identify it with Johnson administration policies and thus dismiss it. This is unfair, because the Peace Corps exemplifies the kind of solution being advocated by many Vietnam war critics — namely, a means whereby underdeveloped nations can be strengthened on the grass roots level through education and economic development.

This winter's crop of recruiters has noted that large campuses are not as responsive to the Peace Corps as they once were; it is as if a feeling of disillusionment has set in. We think this is a correct analysis; we see the futility, the feeling that one cannot change the status quo, in other situations, such as participation in student government elections.

We cannot criticize this alienation too harshly, because there are valid reasons for it. Too many hopes have not been realized. A recent survey of college students asking them to name a hero showed that many were unable to cite anyone. The void left by President Kennedy's death has not been filled. On all fronts, whether national politics or the Negro revolution, the "promises to keep" have not been kept.

Resignation is too easy to accept—and far too dangerous. It is lamentable that so many of us accept defeat so quickly. The war in Vietnam will not end automatically. The establishment in Washington will not alter its course in response to our disillusionment. But that does not bar us from making our mark.

If we remain armchair critics are we not really accepting the status quo? Why not take the other alternative and make a contribution through the Peace Corps or VISTA? Then we will have begun the thousand-mile journey—we will have taken the vital first step.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editors:

My congratulations to the Progress for a thoroughly informative and undeniably factual article which appeared in the May 2, 1968, issue. I am of course referring to the "editorial" concerned with the $500 Student Chapel Fund pledge made by "Pi Alpha Kappa" Fraternity (by the way, gentlemen, the object of your comments is Pi Kappa Alpha).

I wasn't really being facetious when I stated that your article was informative (many of us were unaware of the incompetency of certain Progress staff members) and factual (Pi Kappa Alpha did make a $500 pledge). But despite the fine journalistic qualities exhibited in those two sections of the article, I must take exception with the remainder.

Your mistaken identity of the alleged "leader among social organizations on campus" was an early indication of what would follow. You ask, "Where are the other fraternities and sororities who have been saying they were going to contribute to the chapel fund?" I counter by asking, "Who said they were definitely going to contribute?" Speaking for my own fraternity, while we have tentative plans for making a donation, we have officially indicated nothing of the sort. Therefore we feel maligned and insulted that the Progress has implied the making of an insincere pledge on our part. Your article, while probably written to encourage donations, would more likely achieve the opposite of the desired effect. However, in view of the past record of the Progress, we will rule whatever your official opinion might be to be inconsequential.

Contrary to your most blatant assertion, we did not "give up when the going got tough." When you speak of "a little" extra work and sacrifice, perhaps you should apply your reasoning to the fraternity and sorority systems themselves. Hampered by slowly changing University rules and regulations, our social organizations have had to do more than just a little extra work and have had to sacrifice a great deal to establish themselves, which in itself has added immeasurably to "University progress" and has also proved "their real worth."

Gentlemen, I think you are the only people on campus who "doubt the real purpose of the rest." To show my own interest in University progress, I suggest that someone establish a rival newspaper so that our students will not be subjected solely to the rubbish you brazenly refer to as news.

Again, my congratulations.

Aurora Has Come To Eastern

"Aurora is the dawn—the beginning." And on this opening the new student literary publication, Aurora came to Eastern. The new book put out by The Canterbury Club has formerly been named Belles Lettres.

The Aurora is more than just a change of names; it is a beginning. It is a beginning of new looks in covers, printing, content, and most important of all readership.

The Progress knows from experience that no student publication is ever easy to put together and publish. Added to all the regular and expected problems has been the one of being a new publication without funds. Yet Aurora has met and successfully dealt with all of these problems.

Traditionally a publication devoted to the works of students, Aurora continued as Belles Lettres began. After beginning to read and review though, one finds a much more diversified field of the Arts than had been previously covered. Included are poetry; prose, in the form of short stories and themes; and graphics.

Perhaps the most notable change in content though, can be witnessed in the obvious upgrade in authors' sophistication. In both the poetry and prose areas a marked difference can be seen in the style change from last year to this edition. The range of subject matter and treatment of copy mirrors a much stronger editorial staff.

Poetry not only covers subjects of current interest and affairs, but also delves into more aesthetic matters than in the past issues. One marked change is in the number of works dealing with nuclear warfare and bombs. Permeating the entire issue is a much more contemporary mood. This mood conveys the feelings of today's young adults as they live, learn and work in the academic community.

All in all we at the Progress feel that the entire Aurora staff has earned the honor of recognition and commendation from the student body for a job well done. At the present, copies of the Aurora can be purchased for one dollar in Combs 108; this is the office of the faculty advisor and sponsor, Miss Martha A. Crawford.

McGill

Removing Fossils

By Ralph McGill

United Methodists, now the largest Protestant church body in America, forthrightly moved to resolve or ameliorate some of the thorny issues confronting them. (The United Methodists are a recent union of the former Methodist church and the Evangelical United Brethren.)

Some of the thorns are what might better be called archaeological bones and fossils out of the past. The new church, for example, has the largest constituency of Negro members of any Protestant denomination. In integrated placement of bishops, district superintendents and ministers, it is far ahead of any other Protestant church. It is, indeed, several light years ahead of the more rigidly fundamentalist sects. The new church now is acting to remove vestiges of segregation remaining in church structure. This includes the integration of annual conferences.

One of the fossils being dealt with was that of the use of alcoholic drinks and tobacco. Methodist church regulations impose a pledge upon lay officials to abstain from alcoholic beverages, no matter how low may be the percentage content. Ministers were barred from tobacco and, of course, any alcohol whatever. That the pledges created a substantial amount of hypocrisy and a double standard was not denied. At any rate, some of the leadership of the new United Methodists are trying to bring the church into relevancy with man and his environment.

Nowhere were the morals of members so strongly dogmatized as in the South, though, to be sure, other areas of the nation were not spared a catalogue of "Thou Shalt Nots" that made the Ten Commandments appear as a brief footnote.

The year 1880 may be put down as roughly the time when the prohibition fever took over the more evangelical churches and sects. In 1884 at the Georgia State Baptist convention, one brave minister stood to argue that the Lord's Supper demanded the use of real wine. His view was given short shrift. Grape juice soon replaced wine at the sacrament of communion. (The writer recalls from boyhood in a Presbyterian setting that the youngsters of tender years all looked forward to the Sunday when grape juice was served. It was not then generally available in grocery stores, as now, and was a luxury.)

As the prohibition fervor increased, dancing, gambling, card playing in which the sinful "poker cards" were used, the theater and reading of novels also came under the heading of sins. In 1881, the then famous Methodist divine, the Rev. Atticus Green Haygood, registered shock in several Christian Advocate editions that he had been criticized for advocating the reading of "Robinson Crusoe" "Arabian Nights" and other then popular books.

In that same period, in a sermon delivered in the Tennessee capital, the Rev. Warren Candler, later a famous and influential bishop, vilified an actress then appearing at a Nashville Theater. The actress, a practicing Christian, was attending the services. She stood in her pew and firmly rebuked the speaker. The incident led the Rev. D. C. Kelly, an independent-minded minister of Nashville, to observe that "It is hard to believe that a boy who has completed the curriculum of a high school could speak . . . so derogatorily about the dramatic heritage of Western civilization."

Eastern's second team Little All-America this past season, Aaron Marsh, has been selected to participate in the Coaches' All America game in Atlanta June 28.

Marsh, who signed a bonus contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League as a No. 3 draft choice, was one of the top thirty players chosen from East of the Mississippi River.

He holds almost every pass receiving record at Eastern. The 6-foot, 190 lb. split-end's records also include two national marks for the most receptions in one game (19) and the most yards by pass receiving in a single game (319).

MARON'S DEFEAT WHITES IN INTRASQUAD GAME

The Maroon team under the direction of sophomore Tim Sparks defeated the Whites, 24-8. Jim Guice, starting quarterback for the White team, was injured in the second quarter and was unable to play the remainder of the game.

The Maroon team scored on a 57-yard pass reception by Don Buehler, a one yard run by William Wright, a punt recovery by Fred Troike, and a field goal by Walter Murphy. The Whites scored on a one-yard plunge by Jack Armstrong.

Co-captains for the 1968 football season were elected prior to the annual intrasquad game. Fred Troike, a junior guard from Miami, Florida, and Ron Reed, a junior linebacker from Flemington, New Jersey, were elected for these positions for the upcoming football season. Both players were selected to the OVC all-conference team this past season.

Eastern Sweeps Doubleheader, Loses to Morehead, 3-2

BY KARL PARK

PROGRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Eastern's baseball team ended the season with a 5-3 record, the best winning percentage in the Eastern Division, but yet, Morehead was declared the division champion with a record of 6-4.

The reason is that a total of 10 games must be played by a member of the OVC before the school can be considered for the division crown. Because of wet fields and rainy weather, the Colonels were only able to play eight games, two shy of the required ten.

Friday, Eastern took a doubleheader from East Tennessee, 3-1 and 12-10. The Bucs were leading the Eastern Division before these games were played.

Eastern scored two runs in the first inning of the opener when Rick Houseman and Los Escobar singled and advanced another base on a wild pitch. Frank Borgia singled both runs across to give Eastern a 2-0 lead.

East Tennessee scored its lone run in the second inning on a base loaded wild pitch. Ron Andrews had to be relieved in the second when he wrenched a knee going for a bunt single. Larry Robertson came on and pitched the remainder of the game. Robertson was credited with the win.

Eastern ended the scoring for the first game when Arnie Nyulassy tripled and rode home on a single to right field by Cecil Christie.

In the second game of the doubleheader, the Colonels mounted a 13-hit attack in defeating East Tennessee, 12-10. Eastern started the game with two first inning runs. Escobar doubled, Borgia walked, and Jimmy Cain singled to center driving in Escobar. Lee Hucker walked and Nyulassy hit into a fielder's choice driving in the second run of the inning.

Eastern added two more in the third inning on an error, two walks, a single, and a fielder's choice.

Another two runs came across for Eastern in the fourth inning on singles by Houseman and Borgia and a double by Cain.

Eastern's seventh run scored in the fifth inning on a double by Nyulassy and a single by pitcher Craig Milburn.

A five-run sixth inning for Eastern proved to give the Colonels enough runs to gain the victory. An error, a hits batsmen, and two walks produced the

Golfers Defeat Morehead, 13-5

Eastern's dual match, or regular season, ended Monday as the Colonels defeated Morehead at the Madison Country Club by a score of 13-5.

Colonel's Ron Roby and Jim Martin tied for medalist honors as each fired an even par 73. Right behind the two medalist was John Newton and Jim Saunders, each of whom fired a one over par 73.

This completed the Colonel's dual meet season with a 15-3 season mark. The only teams to defeat the Colonels were Morehead, Cincinnati, and the University of Kentucky. All three defeats were suffered on the road; also, Eastern was victorious over these three teams when they played at Richmond. The golf team leaves Thursday for Johnson City, Tennessee where they will compete in the OVC Tournament. Providing strong opposition in the tournament will be Western, Murray, Middle Tennessee, and Tennessee Tech. The meet will be held on Friday and Saturday.

Revere's Raiders, Exiles Provide Thrills For Dick Clark Productions

BY DONNA FOUST

PROGRESS FEATURE EDITOR

The 1968 version of the Paul Revere and the Raiders Show came to Eastern on Monday night. But, when the crowd of over 3,000 came to their feet cheering and applauding for nearly ten minutes, it wasn't Paul Revere and his famed Raiders' or lead singer Mark Lindsay who had earned these laudits. It was simply a well-deserved welcome home for the evening's show stoppers—Richmond's own Exiles.

And it wasn't the first time the Exiles have shared billing with the Raiders and Lindsay. Including this trip, the Exiles have toured with the Dick Clark Tour Production Group four times.

When questioned later about this lead singer, Jimmy Stokley commented, "Yes, our reception has been good, but we are really worried about tonight. Everyone on the tour knows this is our hometown, and if we don't bring the house down we aren't going to look too good."

The first time they had the opportunity to play a Raiders date was as a local group in 1966 when T.V.'s "Where The Action Is" played a concert appearance at Eastern.

Then in 1967 the Exiles did their first tour with a Raiders show. Since that time Revere has used them frequently.

Keith Allison, a show headliner and fellow performer from the "Action" series said, "The Exiles are a good band with a lot of talent. Too often a single act like myself suffers on the road from a bad back up band, but Paul usually tries to find some group like the Exiles to tour. He knows that they are going to do a good job."

Allison was not the only member of the show that had good things to say about the Exiles. The four members of The Napoleonic Wars gave the group a rave review. Joey James, the lead singer and organ player said backstage, "The Exiles have had a tremendous reception everywhere we've played on the tour the crowds have really liked them."

Jim and the rest of the band needlessly worried. The audience gave them a standing ovation at the end of their last number.

One of the songs in their act was their newly released single "Come On Out, Come On Out," which appears on the Date label, a Columbia subsidiary. The song is currently number one in Oklahoma City and on the charts in Memphis and Nashville.

When asked about their future plans, Stokley ran down the summer schedule. Through May they will be playing at Speck's in Richmond; June will be a two week club date in the Bahamas and a two-week date in New York. Then starting in July, and running through August, will be another road tour.

Winner of the mythical "Triple Crown" for three successive years, the Eastern MILESTONE is probably the most lauded college yearbook in the United States. The awards which make up the Triple Crown are the National School Yearbook Association "A-plus," Columbia Scholastic Press "Medalist," and the Associated Collegiate Press "All-American."

The MILESTONE was one of only seven in its division to win the All-American in 1967.

Designed to give a refreshingly different view of Eastern, the 1968 MILESTONE approaches the story of 1967-68 frankly. Presenting ideas from the viewpoint of an individual, the staff of the 1968 MILESTONE sought to tell the story in such a way to open students' eyes to their campus.

In addition to a new outlook, several sections of the MILESTONE were given a change of format. For example, Organizations, long a somewhat stuffy section, was revamped to present a story rather than a collection of data.

The Progress salutes the MILESTONE editors of 1967-68 and former editors who have strived to provide a meaningful record of life at Eastern.
